

Present Perfect

Jacques has been at the office since 8:30 this morning.

He has been there for three hours already.

I		smoked
you	have	lived	... for more than an hour
we	haven't	worked	... up to now
they		typed	... so far this week
		visited	... until today
		left	... since Friday
		made	... for two years
he	has	sent	... for a long time (now)
she	hasn't	seen	... since a month ago
		been eaten
		known

1. Mark _____ in Boston for two years.
(lives / has lived)
2. _____ you _____ for this company since June?
(do ... work / have ... worked)
3. I _____ usually _____ dinner before seven o'clock.
(don't eat / haven't eaten)
4. How many letters _____ the boss _____ so far this morning?
(does ... read / has ... read)
5. _____ Sasha _____ you since the party?
(does ... see / has ... seen)

Simple Past vs. Present Perfect

Betsy finished opening the mail.

She has almost finished writing everyone back.

Yesterday...

she got ten phone calls.

she didn't make any calls

she typed three reports.

So far today...

she's gotten three phone calls.

she hasn't made any calls.

she's already typed five reports.

1. Last week I _____ at a Mexican restaurant. (eat)
2. _____ Mr. Jones _____ in Japan since 1975? (live)
3. How many E-mails _____ you _____ so far today? (get)
4. Where _____ you _____ to speak English? (learn)
5. Mrs. Benningens _____ French since she was a child. (speak)

6. I _____ very tired this morning. (be)